The American Shakespeare Center in Measure for Measure, by William Shakespeare
Presented by the ASU Lyceum Series

7pm – 9pm | Maxwell Theatre, Augusta State University
$15 General Public; ASU students, faculty, staff – free with valid JagCard.
Some rise by sin, and some by virtue fall. – II.i

Shakespeare's electrifying exploration of the arrogance of power hovers tantalizingly between comedy and tragedy. Measure stares unblinkingly into the way we confuse lust and love, goodness and self-righteousness; and it manages an unforgettably ironic look at who sins most in a congregation of murderers, pimps, politicians, whores, nuns, and dukes.

Legendary Soul Singer Al Green in Concert
Presented by Augusta Westobou Festival, Inc.

8pm | The Bell Auditorium
Adv: $52/Floor & First Balcony; $42/ Second & Third Balcony
Day of Concert: $62/Floor & First Balcony; $52/Second & Third Balcony
Legendary soul singer Al Green will close out the 2010 Westobou Festival with a 7:30 p.m. performance at the Bell Auditorium.
Doors open at 7:00 p.m.

Drift*, presented by the Liz Lerman Dance Exchange
Presented by The Art Factory

7:30pm – 8:30pm | Imperial Theatre

Drift is a choreographic work by Augusta native, Cassie Meador. Drift is a visual enactment portraying the transformation of a local 40 acre tract of land located off Washington Road in Augusta - from rich farmland, to a successful grocery store, and finally to a house of worship.
